Youth Film Society

Do you love films? Are you interested in learning how to make one? Then there's no better way to start than this. Become a member of the Youth Film Society (YFS) and join other young film fans who are learning to make their own films. Being a member enables you to take part in courses and events. You will also get discounts at cinemas around the country.

About us

For the past 20 years, YFS has given teenagers (12-17 years old) the opportunity to learn how to make a film. Our expert teachers include professional film-makers and film critics. We also run a number of fun events during the year, including a summer film camp and, of course, our YFS annual film festival.

Courses

YFS offers a number of short film courses for teenagers throughout the year. Our courses include the basics in film-making, the history and theory of film and many hands-on practical activities. Learn how to create a storyboard, write a script, how to act and how to put all this knowledge together to make a film.

Summer film camp

The camp takes place in July every year. It's an opportunity to meet other young people keen on cinema and film-making. In the activity-packed week, you will be involved in many film-making activities and will contribute to a film made at the camp by everyone attending.

This year's camp will take place between 2nd and 9th July. Depending on the interest shown, we may run a second camp later in the month.

Film festival

In our annual film festival, we show short and full feature films made by kids and teenagers (under 18). If you submit a film, you will have the chance not only to get it shown but you will also have the opportunity to win £5000! Each year 40 films are chosen to be shown, and yours could be one of them. There is no entry fee if you are under 18 when you submit your film and non-members are welcome. The festival takes place over a fortnight in April.

This year's festival will take place between 5th and 18th April.

More information about this year's films, times of film showings and venues can be found here.
